Grand Master's Report. We are assembled again in our annual session and I welcome you in behalf of the 2,000 Odd Fellows to the Capital City of our state.

Capital City of our state.

The report of our grand secretary will show a substantial gain in membership during the year ending Dec. $1, 1307. While the gain is not so large as in some years, yet it is very satisfactory, considering the business depression through which we have recently passed. I have visited many of the lodges and find they have attained excellence in the conferring of degrees. Since the new rituals were distributed in July last the lodges istributed in July last the lodges are become very much interested and feel sure that next year will show large gains, the institution of the new lodge at Thompsonville on the 17th inst. making a satisfactory starter for

I have to thank my district deputies for the interest they have shown in the order and the work they have accomplished. The district deputy can contribute largely to the peace and harmony of the lodges under his direction and save the grand master a great deal of detail. Some of the deputies have been instrumental in getting their lodges to hold district meetings, where all the lodges in the district meet together. This I believe permits of sociability and interest in the work that is conducive of a great deal of good. I wish that more of these meetings might be held. I have to thank my district deputies Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Veterans and the Third company have been invited. A similar service was held two years ago, and the 25th was decided upon as it is the rearrest meeting night to Memorial day.

The First, Second and Tenth companies, C. A., of New London, held their field day this week the first three greatest emission the sing out of come and bunloss. It's their field day this week the first three Gays, and the results are of much ina long drawn out fight over them. Richard W. Lee, who had worked on the Brockway farm for over 25 years, was the sole beneficiary under the latest will and he appealed from prohate to have that will admitted in preference to the other one.

Mrs. Brockway made a will in 1903, which provided that the Congregational church at Grassy Hill should have the benefit of the interest on the estate. In 1904 a codicil was drawn which gave a similar interest of a part of the estate to the use of the Connecticut Home Missionary society. In 1908 Mrs. Brockway drew another will which gave the entire estate to Lee, the faithful farmhand.

By agreement the will drawn latest is practically sustained, for Mr. Lee receives the major portion of the estate, the Congregational church receiving a liberal part remembrance. The church is actually better off by the division, because its share is received outright, and by the terms of the will under which it was a beneficiary the church derived only the interest on the money. Mrs. H. H. Bridgeman, whose guests they were furing the day, and who they were during the day, and who provided a special train for them from New Haven. At the business meeting the historical address, which told in a graphic and interesting way of the society's work of the year, was given by the historical Mrs. Oliver L. John.

Instead of coming here from his summer home in Massachusetts, as was at first supposed, President Taft will come here from Washington to attend the 250th anniversary of the founding of Norwich. This fact was communicated to Edwin A. Tracy, chairman of the executive committee of the anniversary celebration, in a of the anniversary celebration, in a letter from Congressman E. W. Hig-gins received on Wednesday morning. The letter stated that President Taft had decided on his departure fr Washington to Norwich in July, will leave there Sunday night, July recting a building thereon in the near future for the purposes of Odd Fellowship.

Rebekah Lodges.

The Rebekah lodges show a main in membership of 195, which is very encouraging, considering that they have made no gain and sometimes a loss for several years. As the sovereign grand lodge is preparing a revision of the ritual of the Rebekah degree it is my hope that this will create enthusiasm which will lead to great prosperity in this branch of the order. With the institution of Hazel bodge, No. 52, of New Canaan on March 30 we are assured of again in membership for this year.
